He then indirectly called attention to the ediorts being made by ex-Congressman "Nick" Muller to oust Mr. Biglin and source the express business through his friends. Mr. Starr said that if the Labor Bureau was included in Mr. Taintor's motion he would vote for it. He thought that employers should pay something for the privilege of obtaining immigrant help. Mr. Stephenson said that it seemed very singular that two of the Commissinners who had been in the Board at a time when the express business was more remunerative, said nothing about it then. The trouble is that somebody else's ox would have been gored. I am glad that the Mayor is present, that he is taking interest in this Commission, for I wish to call his attention to an article which appeared in The Transure two or three days ago about the licensed thieves who hang around on the Battery near Castle Garden and prey upon and swinde the immigrants after they leave the rotunda. These men bear the license badges granted by the Mayor through the application of politicians; they speak languages which only they and the immigrants understand, and entice them to places where they are swindled with bogus money. If we sell the privileges, as proposed, we will return to the time when the railroad companies paid rent. When we undertook to dictate to them then they toid us to "go to h—i; they would do as they please."

The resolution of Mr. Taintor was adopted, as amended by Mr. Starr, Messrs. Stephenson, Hauselt, Taintor and Starr voting in favor of, and the Mayor, Mr. Lynch and Mr. Forrest against it.

NO RIGHT TO CHARGE A FEE AT A PIER.

NO RIGHT TO CHARGE A FEE AT A PIER.

In response to the request of the Department of Docks as to the right of the Iron Steamboat Company to build a shed over Pier No. I North River, Corporation Counsel Whitney has forwarded to the Department an opinion in the matter, the substance of which is given herewith. Mr. Whitney quotes as follows from Gerard's work on City Water Rights: Wharf property is held by a different tenure from that of upland, inacmuch as it is granted for public purposes and for the premotion of public naterests, and, to a certain extent, remains liable to legislative control.

It is supposed, however, that even the owner of a private wharf must use it for ordinary commercial purposes connected with navigation, as for the mooring, fooding and unboaing of vessels, with freedom of access thereto and therefrom; and that the public cannot be excluded by permanent obstructors thereof. It cannot, therefore, be used for mere storage, to the hindrance of commerce.

There is a general theense, implied by asw, from the dock or wharf owner to all persons navigating public waters, to occupy wharves, docks, etc., in the manner and for the purposes contemplated by the owner, and for which they were constructed. Therefore, it is not necessary for those navigating vesses to make an express application to wharf owners to use such construction, but they may occupy the same, at least unit they receive reasonable notice to remove their vessels, and have sufficient and reasonable under the circumstances, to does not confer upon the lesse the excusive right of its possession, use or control, and he has no right to encumber it so as to interfere with its free use for purposes connected what navigation, by the general rules of line for the lease he only becomes cuttied to the wharfage accruing thereat, which is a mere franchise or heorporeal hereditament. Under such lense, the warf continues a public wharf, and all vessels resorting to it are subject to the general rules of line resorting to it are subject to the gene

These rules, the opinion states, have been modified by the Legislature in regard to wharf property in this city constructed under the new plans provided for in the act of 1871. The opinion continues:

Pler I was constructed according to the new plan, and the Board of the Department of Docks had authority to set it apart for the sole use of a special king of commerce, and it could also authorize the erection of a shed thereon for the protection of the property received or discaraged, but section 4 of the act expressly prohibits the erection of any structure thereon other than the sheds mentioned in the first section. It seems that the building created on the pier under the resolution of the Department authorizing the creation of a shed is used for the purposes of musical entertainments, and that an admission fee is charged therefor. The Board of the Department of Docks has no authority to lease this pier to be used as a place for musical entertainments, and a lease made in express terms for such purpose would be invalid, nor has the present lessee any right to use the pier for such purpose, nor to exact an admission fee from persons going upon the pier. The lessee might, for the purpose of protecting the property, excinne the public by gates or doors, but it has no right to give musical or other entertainments upon the pier and charge an admission therefor. These rules, the opinion states, have been modified STABBED BY A FELLOW-WORKMAN. At Gaff, Fleischman & Co.'s distillery at Bliss-ville, L. Stengler made several attempts to stab Middleburg again, but the latter beat him off with a dinner pail he held in his hand. Stengler finally became alarmed on account of the blood that flowed from the injured man's back, and he ran away. The night watchman with the help of some workmen removed Middleburg to his home in Blissville. Police Commissioner McGarry began a search for Stengler and found him hidden in a large yeast vat. He was taken to the Queens County Jail in Long Island City, Middleturg and Stengler lived in the same house at Blissville, and bear a reputation in the neighborhood of quiet, peaceable men. Drs. MR. CULYER'S REPLY TO MR. SCHOLES.

At a meeting of the Brooklyn Park Commissioners yesterday, Chief Engineer John Y. Culyer took occasion to reply to the recently published criticisms of Frederick Scholes, reflecting on the way in which money was spent by the Commissioners, whose successors Mayor Low recently appointed. The facts, he stated showed that Mr. Scholes's strictures were unfair and malicious. Mr. Scholes had said that the expenditure of $15,000 for maintaining structures in the Park was surprising. If he had examined in detail the work done for this money, he would not have been surprised. Nothing had been wasted, and Mr. Scholes had jumped at a conclusion without trying to verify it. He had also referred to the expenditure of $200 for lumber, and of $1,442 for paint, oils, etc., saving that he could not see where they were used. The fact was that there was lumber worth $1,600 on hand; of the $1,442 spent for paints, etc., which Mr. Scholes had said would paint over 15,000 square yards, the sum of $900 had been expended for illuminating oil. Mr. Scholes had asserted that the removal of earth from the East Side Park lands cost twenty-five times as much as it onest, while the feet was that the matter had been MR. CULYER'S REPLY TO MR. SCHOLES. seried that the removal of earth from the East Side Park lands cost twenty-five times as much as it ought, while the fact was that the matter had been fully investigated by the Taxpayers Association and the charge had been disproved. In conclusion, Mr. Culver challenged Mr. Scholes to prove any of his allegations, or to show any dishonesty in the management of the Park Department. A man who had been in public life as Mr. Scholes had, should not make, without consideration, statements bringing discredit apon the city or its officers.

VALUING HIGHLY A WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

A motion was made for an order of arrest in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday in the suit of Edward Schneil against his uncie, Frederic Blohm, to recover $50,000 as damages for alienation of his wife's affections. Mr. and Mrs. Schneil were married nine years ago, and have one child. The uncle, a wealthy widower, with seven children, was present at the marriage. Last year he began to visit frequently at the house. After Mr. Schneil gave up business, his nucle advised a trip to Europe, and he sailed with his family on April 30, 1881. His uncle followed them, and stayed at the house of the plaintiff's mother, waere they were. The plaintiff there discovered that his uncle and wife were too familiar, but the matter was hushed. Afterward he found that his wife had more money than he could account for. On returning to this country he again upbraided his wife for her actions, and she saggested that they should be divorced. She used to go to her mother's and meet Mr. Blohm, Finally the plaintiff found affectionate lecters written to his wife by his uncle. Since then Mrs. Schneil had hived with her mother, and would not return to her husband.

For the defendant it was set forth that Mrs.

Lawrence Wether, who erected six houses recently at Fourth-ave, and One-hundred-and-twentieth-st. He took no heed of the rescated warnings of the Board of Health, and an injunction was obtained from Judge Haight in the Supreme Court, restraining him from occupying, letting or selling the houses. His counsel made a motion to have the minimetion modified so as to allow the sale of the houses,

Information was received at the office of the Health Department yesterday that this motion had been denied. It was said that the action of the Court had placed the Board of Health in a position to enforce the plumbing act in the future without further trouble in the courts. Mr. Weiher went to the office of the Chef Clerk of the Board yesterday and expressed a wish to submit an exp anation, saying that he was willing to comply with the law.

NAVY EMPLOYES PAID.

NAVY EMPLOYES PAID.

"You will be pleased to notify to every person employed in the department under your charge that his employment will cease on July 31, inst." Such is the notice that Commodore Upsiur, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, has sent to the heads of departments. The reason of this is that the Navy is entirely without funds since the Appropriation bill for the present fiscal year, which began on July I, has not been passed by Congress. The men who have been employed in the several Navy yards since June 30 cannot receive any pay for their work natil the Appropriation bill is passed and the allotsince June 30 cannot receive any pay lot their work until the Appropriation bill is passed and the allot-ments are distributed, and all work in progress must be discontinued until funds are available. This can only be avoided by the passage of a joint resolution by Congress to keep the Navy yards opened, and un-til this is done all clerks, writers and other employes must be discharged.

The officers of the Navy and the families of those on foreign stations will be inconvenienced by the delay in passing the Appropriation bill, as no paymaster will have the legal right, excepting upon his own responsibility, to pay the officers their salaries or the families of officers their allotments for the present month until the new appropriation is available. There will be many hardships feit, especially by workmen who are really dependent upon what they earn by their daily toil for their support.

They must be fully prepaid, and if presented at a window with a request for an indorsement, the day, hour and minute of their reception will be marked on the envelope; Mr. Pearson has arranged that the packages, it intended for registration, must be presented at ope: Mr. Pearson has arranged that the packages, if intended for registration, must be presented at the receiving window of the registry division in the General Post Office or at the window for the reception of registered matter at any of the branch postal stations. The packages to be forwarded without registration will be received at window No. 22 on the ground floor of the Post Office or at the registry windows at the stations. No packages will be received for certification before 10 a. m. on August 1.

KILLED BY HER HUSBAND.

A dissipated junkman, James Mechan, age fifty, of Nelson-st. and Hamilton-ave., Brooklyn, murdered his wife on Wednesday night and then attempted to poison himself. Both were quarrelsome when drunk. On Wednesday afternoon Mechan went home, and, in a quarrei, beat his wife over the head home, and, in a quarrei, beat his wife over the head with a tin pail. She was found in an alley insensible and carried into the nouse by the neighbors. The police found her dead yesterday morning, and the man lying near her unconscious. A cup had in it the dregs of what was supposed to be arsenic. The woman's body showed many bruises and cuts, and it is supposed that her imsoand beat her in the evening. He was taken to the City Hospital and will probably die. The couple had four children.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE MESSENGERS. THE STOCK EXCHANGE MESSENGERS.

A petition for a special meeting on Monday of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange to consider the action of the sub-committee in discharging the messenger boys connected with the Exchange received numerous signatures yesterday. The general sentiment of the members of the Exchange is said to be opposed to the discharge of the boys. Most of the boys have been so long in the employ of the Exchange that they are perfectly familiar with the members and deliver messages promptly. Several of the boys have already obtained places in the offices of some of the leading brokerage houses, but in spite of this fact members of the Governing Committee said yesterday that the Exchange should not surrender the service to a corporation. Recent instances of the failure of American District messengers to deliver messages quickly and correctly were cited to show the advantages of the former system. Some of the members of the sub-committee said that the employment of the company's messengers was intended merely as an experiment, but brokers asserted that they did not believe in experiments which might be very costly to them.

Samuel Obreight, the alleged lunatic, was in the Harlem Police Court recently as complainant against his brother Jacob, of No. 336 East Sixtieth-Harlem Police Court recently as complainable against his brother Jacob, of No. 336 East Sixtiethst. Samuel asked for a warrant for the arrest of his brother about two weeks ago, on a charge of threatening to take his life and that of his wife with a revolver. Samuel reopened his old place at Ninety-second-st. and Third-ave., and by treating all visitors collected a large crowd. Then his brother appeared outside the liquor store, armed with a revolver, which he flourished about in a threatening manner, until he was taken into custody. He was arraigned in court, where he was greeted by the Justice with the remark that he had been expected there for some time. A fine of $10 was then imposed, although Jacob protested that he was only protecting humself, and that Samuel had beaten his mother, a statement which Justice Power said he did not believe. Jacob then wanted his revolver, but was told that he could get it at the Property Clerk's office.

James W. King, a watchman employed by Van Hoesen Brothers, of No. 67 South-st, to watch some bales of cotton, was found insensible in State-st, near Battery Park, early yesterday morning. He was suffering from several severe scalp wounds. The police sent him to the Chambers street Hospital, where he recovered consciousness. He said that he was assaulted late on Wednesday night by three unknown men. Other watchmen who were on duty in South-st, on Wednesday ught, told the police that that they had not witnessed any ason duty in South-st. on Wednesday aight, told the police that that they had not witnessed any assault as King had described. It is believed that King was absent from his post when he was injured, and that he was under the influence of liquor. King was transferred to Believue Hospital, yesterday, and it is said that his injuries are serious. His home is at No. 73 Washington-st.

In attempting to discourage attempts at detection the proprectors of this kind of "club" adopt a unique contrivance. The two formalities necessary to becoming a member of the Parole Club were the payment of one dollar and the signing of a pledge. The pledge appeals to a delicate sense of "honor," and the complanants in the recent action were scornfully asked by the secretary of the club whether they had signed such pledges. The form used is as follows: used is as follows:

CHARGES OF TRICKERY IN RACING.

At Monmouth Park on Wednesday a charge was made by James E. Kelly, a pool seller, against Mr. Watton, proprieter of the St. James Hotel, to the effect that the latter had been systematically bribing jockeys and trainers. The two men exchanged anary words on the race course. The Monmouth Park Racing Association has been called upon by Mr. Walton to investigate his methods, and if Kelly's allegations should be proved true, the "Planger" will probably be debaired from the privileges of allgrepatable race tracks. Mr. Kelly clarges that Mr. Walton has several times attempted to induce him to join in bribing jockeys; that he has seen Mr. Walton closeted with jockeys and trainers and has the strongest circumstantial evidence to prove that the "Plunger" was in the habit of paying nocturnal and surreptitious visits to stablemen. In a recent race between Marathon and Hospodar Mr. Kelly asserts that the former was "pulied" through the intrigues of Mr. Walton, and lost the race in consequence. In the race on Wednesday, Marathon was backed heavily by Walton, and succeeded in winning the race, thus bringing down on the bead of the "Plunger" the charges of fraud and CHARGES OF TRICKERY IN RACING.

Marathon was backed heavily by Walton, and succeeded in winning the race, thus bringing down on the head of the "Plunger" the charges of fraud and trickery which the alonmouth Park Racing Association will investigate.

It is claimed that the methods of Mr. Walton have been so demoralizing to the speculators on the race tracks, that instead of looking appedigrees and records to guide their judgments, the bettors now rush around and endeavor to find out what horse Mr. Walton is "backing." Kelly says that he gave Mr. Walton kind warning on several occasions to cease his uniawful tampering with jockeys, and that Mr. Walton retorted by threatening to "break Kelly up in business if he made any trouble for him." Mr. Walton was in the city yesterday afternoon, and denied the charges absolutely.

WHY MR. WILLIAMS HAD NOT ACTED. WHY MR. WILLIAMS HAD NOT ACTED.

The Police Commissioners of Long Island City have at length taken decided steps to close the poorrooms and gambling-houses at Hanter's Point. At a meeting of the Board last night a resolution was adopted instructing the Chief of Police to arrest all persons found selling pool-tickets in Long Island City, and also to make a descent on any place where gairbling games were in progress. Descents on the places will be made to-day. Commissioner Williams stated at the meeting that he had been very lenient toward the pool-sellers, as he had supposed that they would prevent the red and black games being carried on. As they had not he wanted to act at once. The pool-sellers did a heavy business vesteriay.

to work if they would give up the union. What he did say was that it was his impression that the railroad officials would not allow them to return to work while they remained members of the union. No contributions have been received since Wednesday's meeting. The striking callers and checkers had a special meeting yesterday, and resolved not to return to work while the strike continued.

CHECKS CLEVERLY RAISED.

The First National Bank of this city received on Wednesday morning a draft for $5,540 30, drawn by the First National Bank of Wikesbarre, Penn., through the Importers and Traders' Bank here, with a request to advise payment, as the draft was with a request to advise payment, as the draft was large and looked a little suspicious, a dispatch was sent to the Wilkesbarre Bank, asking in regard to the draft. An answer was received at once, saving that the amount of the draft was $15. It was returned to the Importers and Traders' Bank therefore, and by them sent to the Pennsylvania National Bank of Philadelphia, which had taken it for collection. A little later on Wednesday the First National Bank received through the Clearing-House a draft for $5,862 50 drawn by the Wilkesbarre Bank through the Chemical Bank of New-York. It was found that this graft also had been drawn originally for only $15. It was returned by the Chemical Bank to the Girard Bank of Philadelphia, which had taken it on deposit. Ten immutes before the dispatch from New-York reached the Girard Bank the man who had deposited the draft drew $5,000, so that if the swindler cannot be found it will lose that amount of money. The swindler gave his name as Louis R. Randolph while carrying out his schemes. The First National Bank threw out on Wednesday $14,000 in cheeks and drafts that had been raised.
